BISBEE, ARIZONA, SUNDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 20, 1912

NUMBER 141

MRS. ROOSEVELT HOLDS COLONEL IN SUBMISSION

Former President Chafes Under Restraint But His Wife Compels Him to Obey Prudence

LEAVES TODAY FOR HOME IN NEW YORK

Progressive Candidate at Hospital in Chicago Receives Four Visitors. Will Speak Again

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—A gentle but an uncompromising rule of his wife is all that kept Colonel Roosevelt in any approximately calm condition today. With the time of his departure for New York decided, and with assurances from his physicians that he just was out of danger, the Colonel chafed at all restraint.

It was the last day but one of his stay in the hospital, with the provision that no complication should arise.

Quiet as Sunday
In the Colonel's room and in the big corridor outside it was quiet as a Sunday afternoon.

The physicians permitted Colonel Roosevelt to sit in an easy chair while wrapped in a bathrobe, for several hours today. He saw four visitors and replied to some telegrams of congratulation, and passed the remainder of the day in reading and talking with Mrs. Roosevelt.

Condition Normal
Throughout the day, his condition was virtually normal. Physicians visited him regularly as before, but had no changes to report, so some of the usual bulletins were omitted. It was decided, with as much definiteness as possible under the circumstances, that Colonel Roosevelt will make one speech toward the end of the campaign.

Whether Colonel Roosevelt would be able to make more than one speech the physicians could not say.

Labor Leader Visits Him
Among Roosevelt's callers today were Patrick Morrissey, labor leader; J. J. Hannahan, grand master of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen; M. Larson, general chairman of the Burlington system, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul roads, extending congratulations and a promise to aid his campaign.

TWO BISBEEITES IN AUTO RACE

Buxton and Ferguson Will Make Run from San Diego to Phoenix During State Fair

EXPERIENCED DRIVER

There will be two Bisbeeites in the automobile race from San Diego to Phoenix, during the coming state fair. As was stated yesterday, George Buxton will enter a car in the race and, according to Phoenix papers, Billy Ferguson will also be in the race. Ferguson had already entered the Los Angeles race with a Buick and has now decided to enter an Apperson in the race from San Diego to Phoenix.

Will Leave Sunday.
Ferguson and his mechanic plan to leave for San Diego Sunday. They will arrive there about Wednesday, and spend three days going over their car. They will make night trips out of San Diego to familiarize themselves with the road and make certain that they will not lose their way the night the race starts.

Billy Ferguson drove the White Steamer with Colonel F. C. Fenner in the first Los Angeles-Phoenix race, which was run in 1908.

White Steamer Winner.

The White Steamer won the race, so Ferguson may properly be said to have been on the first car that crossed the desert between Los Angeles and Phoenix. Last year he drove a Buick and took fourth place, being only twenty minutes out of third money.

There is not a more experienced desert driver in the country than Ferguson. For this reason he will be held as a favorite, locally at least.

EDDIE GILLETTE WISCONSIN HERO

Eddie Gillette, Wisconsin quarterback, is something of a hero at the Badger institution. In the recent game with Northwestern, which Wisconsin won 56 to 0, Gillette carried off the honors for his eleven. Toward the end of the game he took the ball on his own ten-yard line and carried it ninety yards through a broken field for a touchdown. During his dash down the gridiron Gillette shook off six Northwestern tacklers. Earlier in the game Gillette brought the crowd to its feet by a thrilling dash for fifty yards on a fake kick.

REBELS TO GET MEXICAN ARMY

General and Gil, Who Arrived at Agua Prieta Recently Are Ready to Aid Mexicans

There were reports all over Douglas yesterday, which will not down that the Mexican federal troops in Agua Prieta are talking on the side in favor of the Diaz revolution. It is also stated that there is evidence among them that makes it probable they would grab at an opportunity to desert the federal army in a body and take up arms on the other side.

Gil a Diaz Man.
General Gil, who arrived day before yesterday to take the position of commander, relieving Sanjines, was formerly a Diaz man in the Mexican revolution. It is not known, neither does the International want to even intimate that he is not loyal now to Madero, but it masters not his position, the men under him are restless and the Diaz uprising is having a great influence over them.

Federals Looters.
Couriers among the Mexicans who recently returned from the Mormon colony at Colonia Morelos say that the 50 federals who were left there to guard and protect their property, have been taking things that did not belong to them and otherwise abusing the trust that is imposed in them. They fear that the colony is not now in much better hands than it was when the rebels governed it.

SHOWS HE HAS MONEY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—"I have no special mind for provisional president of Mexico," said Felix Diaz today. "When the country is pacified the people will have an opportunity to express their preference at the ballot box. I never will accept the presidency."

Captured Three Gunboats.
Diaz is at Vera Cruz, where, according to messages, he has captured three of the four gunboats in the harbor. The fourth is still under the command of loyal Commodore Aguiar. But he is under the guns of the rebel vessels and no provisions are allowed to go aboard. It is believed the commodore will soon surrender.

PREPARED FOR DEFENSE.
VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 19.—The rebels have made good preparations to defend the city against any assault by the two federal columns which came in sight today. There is perfect order in the city. The federals are not believed to be stronger than the rebel garrison.

TREVINO FAVORED.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 19.—General Geronimo Trevino, federal commander of Monterey, who resigned yesterday, is favored by many of the military men as provisional president.

His reputation is also well known in San Diego and the autocrats of that city realize that in him they have a formidable contender for that honor.

PROGRESSIVES OF BISBEE IN FAVOR OF T. R.

Two Prominent Republican Candidates Show by Words They Are Without Leader

YOUNG'S ADDRESS IS FULL OF HOMILES

Speakers Flit Back and Forth and Condemn Jointure of Church and Politics

George U. Young, former territorial secretary of state, and Dwight B. Heard, candidate for presidential elector on the progressive ticket, spoke to a large crowd on the Cosello lot last night in support of the national progressive ticket.

Mr. Young spoke first, as his associate was late in arriving, and the audience had the pleasure of listening to an extemporaneous address by the erudite ex-secretary of the territory and acting governor of the territory. It had previously been arranged as to what subjects the speakers were to discuss, and for fear that he might encroach on Mr. Heard's allotment, Mr. Young discarded his manuscript and spoke from the heart and the shoulder.

Speech from Heart

Mr. Young's address was half homily and half political speech. He devoted the first part of his talk to a vindication of his record as a territorial officer, and frequently referred to himself during the evening. He claimed to have been the original progressive of Arizona, and said that he rejoiced in the present political status.

Having abandoned his original schedule of topics to be discussed, Mr. Young flitted back and forth across the centuries, from state to national issues and from politics to philosophy. He condemned the activity of postmasters in politics, criticized the closing of post offices on Sunday, suggested that boys working their way through high school be paid to distribute Sunday mail, with pay at $35 per month, made light of "education" as opposed to "learning," and asserted that men who read and write have been the arch criminals of history.

Denies He Is Seeking Office.
Mr. Young denied that he was seeking office and as a "last thought" he pointed out that any man who claimed he was looking for office was either maliciously misinformed or a malicious liar.

He said that, speaking advisedly, Theodore Roosevelt is "not only the greatest man in the United States, but the greatest man in the world." He pointed out a mistake that had been made by Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt, "the belief that there is a middle line between right and wrong."

Mr. Young held in his hand an article he said he wrote in 1910, predicting the nomination of Roosevelt, which he offered to let any one in the audience who chose to read. "I will be honest and say that I was afraid to say so then because I did not think the people would appreciate it or understand it."

Criticizes Woodrow Wilson

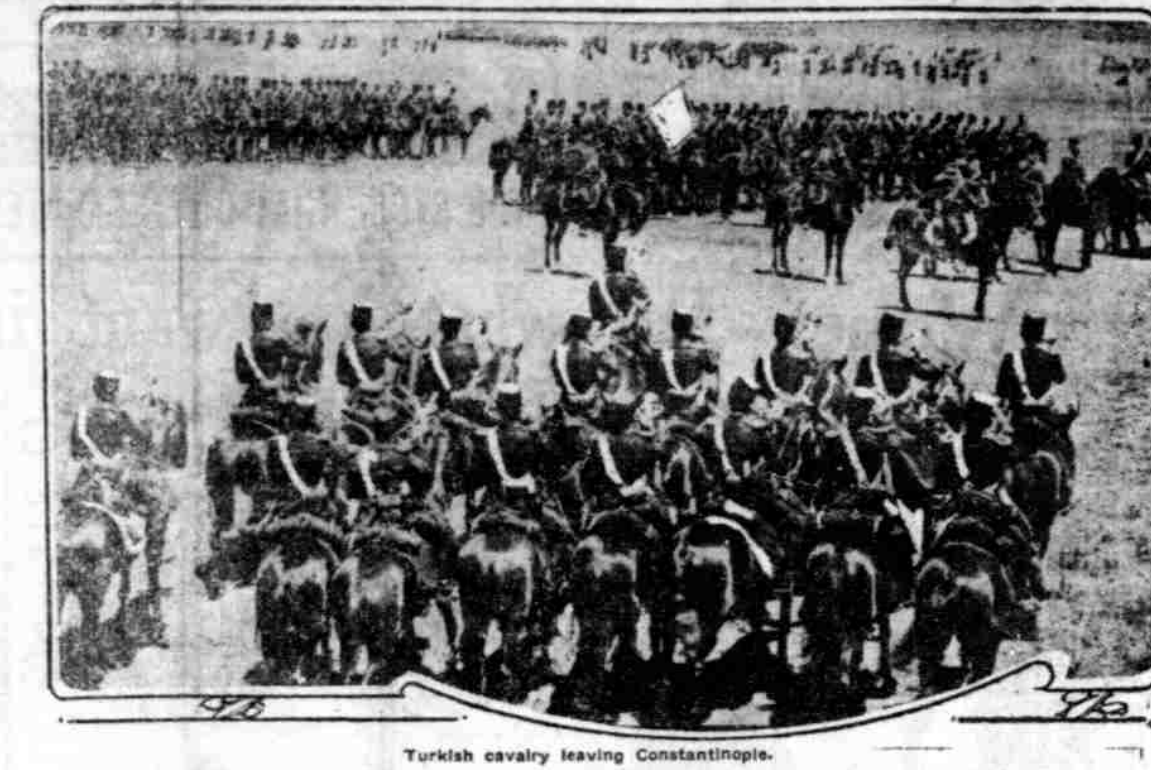

The speaker criticized Woodrow Wilson as an aristocrat and said that Wilson believed in an "aristocracy of brains," which, he said, "is something that I can't understand." Mr. Young was frequently applauded, and his philosophy evidently made a hit with the crowd. He was introduced by C. E. Hicks, and he, in turn, introduced Mr. Heard, unwittingly depriving John Heard, husband of the honor, so the latter merely presented Mr. Heard to the audience.

Mr. Heard, in his turn, repeated the history of the progressive movement, and told the story of the Chicago convention. He was given close attention throughout his address, and his exposition of the principles of the progressive party was both clear and forceful.

PEGGY STEWART DAY OBSERVED

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 19.—"Peggy Stewart day," one of the most picturesque anniversaries in the history of Maryland, was observed today by the different historical societies of Maryland. The Peggy Stewart was a brig, which, October 15, 1774, arrived in the harbor of Annapolis from England with an assorted cargo, in which were seventeen cases of tea. At the time the people were greatly incensed over the action of England in imposing a duty on tea imported into the colonies. Anthony Stewart, owner of the brig, paid the duty on the tea in order to land the rest of the cargo. The colonists were indignant at what they considered not only treason, but defiance. A mob was soon formed, but before any action was taken, the thoroughly frightened Stewart, fearing personal violence, offered to burn his vessel and destroy her cargo. The offer was accepted and Stewart applied the torch to his ship, which was burned to the water's edge in the presence of a great crowd of cheering spectators.

They are seasoned soldiers, believed to be more than a match for the Greeks and Balkan peoples, who were 100,000 about the art of war.

EXPLOSIONS CLOSE

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 19.—Post office money orders showing how J. J. McManigal sent through the mails funds which Ortie McManigal used on dynamiting trips were produced in the dynamite conspiracy trial today.

The records showed the transmission of money by McManigal to Frank O. Eckhoff, of Cincinnati. L. A. Noel, secretary of the union labor body, testified he knew McManigal when the latter was working on a building in Detroit in June, 1907. Noel said Herbert S. With two American warships steaming for ports on the east coast of Mexico to protect American interests there if need be, state department officials at Washington were much concerned over the new revolution led by Felix Diaz. The cruisers Des Moines and Tacoma should reach Vera Cruz within the next 48 hours, the town being in the hands of Diaz.

EVIDENCE TOO DAMNING FOR POLICE CASES

Rosenthal's Alleged Murderer Is Trying His Best to Throw Blame on Others

DEFENSE TRIES TO SHOW BECKER GOOD

Men in Department Under Becker Certain That Their Superior Officer Is Tool

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Witnesses at the trial of Police Lieutenant Becker testified today to two points which the defense considered were vital to the case. These were: First, that the raid at Herman Rosenthal's gambling house on April 17 was made after the evidence against it had been obtained by the police. The state charges the raid was a "fake."

Second, that "Held Jack" Ross and "Bridge" Webber, two confessed accomplices of Rosenthal's murder, had turned state's evidence and threatened to kill Rosenthal weeks before he was murdered.

Another witness, Louis Platt, a brother and Becker's so-called press agent, swore that Jack Rose had gone down on his knees in the Tombs and said: "On the grave and memory of my dead mother, I say Lieutenant Becker had nothing to do with this affair."

Try to Prove Alibi

Other witnesses of the police lieutenant and his wife testified they visited Mr. Becker at his home on July 17, 48 hours after Rosenthal was shot, and that Becker was there from 10:40 o'clock until after they left at 11:45 o'clock. Jack Rose had testified he was with Becker elsewhere during those hours.

Joseph H. Sheppard, a one-time member of Becker's "strong arm squad," testified he obtained the evidence on which Rosenthal's place was raided. He was taken to the establishment two days before the raid, he said, by a "steer," who met him and two other policemen at the Hotel Cadogan.

Police in Plain Clothes
The policemen wore plain clothes, and the steer did not know their identity.

Next day Sheppard said he met Becker and told him what had been done. At Becker's instructions he drew up the necessary legal papers preparatory to making a raid. The day after this warrant was issued, and that night Rosenthal's place was raided. One of the men who had been at the wheel when arrested, Sheppard said, had been identified by Mrs. Rosenthal as her nephew. She asked Becker not to take the youth away, but Becker said he had a warrant for him, so Sheppard testified, and Mrs. Rosenthal tried to draw Becker aside, saying she had something to tell him.

Queries Witness

"And what did Becker say to her?" asked John F. McIntyre, chief of Becker's half dozen lawyers.

"He said, 'If you have anything to say to me, say it now.'"

Robert A. Smith, contractor, who testified that Webber and Rose had told him they wanted Rosenthal out of the way, were assailed by the state on cross examination.

Smith testified on direct examination that Rose had told him on June 23, if Jack Selig did not get into trouble he, (Rose) would have had Rosenthal killed a month before.

Webber's alleged declaration made to Smith was, "He could cut Rosenthal's throat, lie down and sleep all night with him."

So far, the introduction of evidence concerning the case is considerably more than half finished. McIntyre said today he probably will rest the case next Wednesday or Thursday.
